Dogs At The Table

I know this is kinda frightening, But it would feel a little better if you'd put it in writing I confess, I confess, I confess that I love you more than the d ogs at the table That I love you more than the dogs at the table

And in the night, you know they cry for you And in the night, I know I know I know

I know this is kinda frightening, When you crave up in the corner and you're shaking from the lig htning I confess, I confess, I confess that I love you more than the d ogs at the table That I love you more than the dogs at the table

And in the night, you know they cry for you And in the night, I know I know I know And in the night, you know they cry for you And in the night, I know I know I know

You never knew 'cause I never told you Howling for you like a dog in the corner You never knew 'cause I never told you Howling for you like a dog in the corner

And in the night, you know they cry for you And in the night, I know I know I know And in the night, you know they cry for you And in the night, I know I know I know [x2]
