Leave it alone let it go by I know that it's hard, but you've got to try Leave it alone let it pass through You'll just have to find somebody knew You tell me that your baby didn't come home last night You waited up till morning just looking for a fight And when it finally hit you that she wasn't coming back You called up some hot number to come and scratch your back You're out that very evening a pretty girl by your side You can't keep your hands off her and you don't wanna try You wisk her back to your place before things get much hotter And in between the satin sheets you've got her 'I'm sorry babe to hurt you or worry your little head Can I come by and see you and join you in your bed?' I said sorry that's impossible your space in bed is taken Your clothes are on the doorstep our love has been forsaken

Firefall