

The Yearning

Firewind

Now that all my dreams come true
They seem a frozen false reality
And though my hopes have not all gone
It's you to bring me out of all this vanity

But I'm still here to break the ice
I'll never give up the fight

Yearning to remember, that my dream can be reality
Yearning to remember, so I can live another day

Stop this moment and believe
I'm not afraid to show you who I am
I know I'm a passenger of life
I seize the day; I try it hard to understand

But I'm still here to break the ice
Never give up the fight

Yearning to remember, that my dream can be reality
Yearning to remember, so I can live another day