

Helping Hands

Floater

"You must learn to obey..
Obey..
Obey..."

I already know what I already know
I already know all there is to know
I already know what I already know
I already know all there is to know
I already know what I already know
I already know all there is to know
I was born to reap and you were born to sow

And how am I supposed to feel with my silver spoon in somebody else's mouth?
And I have been waiting here for so long, so long, so long

There are no helping hands
There are no disappearing lands
There are no crucible wars
There are no more men like me
No
No, no

The truth is mine, and all the power too
How sad that only one in five will make it through
By any means, you know, I will prevail
I know by now that everything is for sale
The truth is mine and all the power too
There is no innocence I have to prove
And I am always within reach of you
Always
Always
Always
We hope that you will live to see another day
We hope to find the knowledge you lost

We hope that you will live to see another day
Because you're never gonna count up the cost
No you're never gonna count up the cost
Count it up

There are no helping hands
There are no disappearing lands
There are no crucible wars
There are no more men like me
No
Oh no

You know the truth is mine, and all the power too
How sad, that only one in five will make it through
By any means, you know, I will prevail
I know by now that everything is for sale
The truth is mine and all the power too
There is no innocence I have to prove
I am always within reach of you
Always
Always
Always

We hope that you will live to see another day
We hope to find the knowledge you lost
We hope that you will live to see another day
Because you're never gonna count up the cost
No you're never gonna count up the cost
You're never gonna count up the cost
You're never gonna count up the cost
You're never gonna add it up