Flobots

Run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, run until the rising sun It used to be stupid to say 'revolution' We way over used it, daze and confusion Looped it out, rallies and felt a deep therapy Put it on TV to sell a Jeep Cherokee But invariably, seekers seek clarity Secrets leak, people retweet like a parakeet Used to be no sign of hope, now it's show time Compassion as fast as you can. Go time What are we running from? What are we running for? Hungry gun punishment? metaphors ? the movement is medicine Turn our potential into kinetic force Follow the drinking gourds And we know what we're running from We're not running to it but we know what we're running for Run, run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, run until the rising sun If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I We run to the horizon? finish lines Call you to? can I get a witness? I spit these rhymes like picket signs Phillistines with skiddish minds Refugees slave and the pantomime ?/ ? out of sight, out of mind it's business time We don't dig it, let's undermine The revolution has begun The clever youth that had to run Cause we were shooting at them Guns from every roof the flags were hung The women came and added on They said no one could ever ever do And they inspired us from Babylon to Avalon We saw that they were headed somewhere fast and tried to tag along Like a vagabond, so we battle on All over the map it's time to sprint It's a decathalon, everybody Run, run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, the revolution has begun Run, run, run, run until the rising sun If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will I

If the sun will rise even one more time, so will I. So will  $\ensuremath{\mathsf{I}}$