

Reflections

For Today

What have we done? What have we become?
A broken mirror reflecting only darkness.
Disrupted visions and closed off hearts;
We've turned our face away from those we're sent to love.

But now I hear your voice calling me back home.
It isn't over yet.
Bringing hope into our hopelessness;
Turning hearts from stone to flesh.

In a world headed for self destruction, the answer is here.
Are we too blind to see it?
In a world headed for self destruction, the answer is here.
Are we too blind to see it?