

Final Song

Frankmusik

The ink will penetrate the fibers held below
One last memento to us both
These being mops of writer's block crash through my door
I can see the end of everything I knew before

This will be my final song
Be my final song
Be my final song to you
This will be my final song
Be my final song
Be my final song for you

Now I look out my window and the doubts have arrived
With greed in their teeth and a smile in their eyes
I'm back to a corner, there's rope in their hands
Nothing has replaced you and I don't understand
I thought if I liked you in the words that I wrote
And preach your betrayal of the lies that you spoke
I felt the victory but then I was wrong, so

This will be my final song
Be my final song
Be my final song to you
This will be my final song
Be my final song
Be my final song for you

This song will be vengeance
Right in between the lines
Describe every moments
With a tears that won't ever dry
I'll stop being the author
And you won't be my muse
Cause we will only be people
With nothing it seems left to lose

Cause this will be the last song that I write
This will be the last song that I write
Cause this will be the last song that I write
This will be the last song that I write

This will be my final song yeah
Be my final song to you
This will be my, my final song yeah
This will be my, my final song
Be my final song to you
This will be my final song
Be my final song
Be my final song for you