

Where Are You Going ?

Fredrika Stahl

Every day you wake up to the same worry
Living your life in a constant hurry
Trying to catch up with your expectations
Living a life in constant aggravation

Every night you dream about fame and glory
Waking up to realize it's another story
Breaking your neck to climb that ladder
Losing your grip while too busy together

You spread your wings
And you flew away
You implored the sun
But got blinded by its rays
Where are you going?
You are losing your mind
Searching for a place
Nowhere to be found

Every day as your life is passing you by
Your mind is focused on one last try
While dreaming away I've been there
Begging for a response but you're too far to hear

You spread your wings
And you flew away
You implored the sun
But got blinded by its rays
Where are you going?
You are losing your mind
Searching for a place
Nowhere to be found

From above, down here it seems so plain
Among the clouds in a sun above the rain

You spread your wings
And you flew away
You implored the sun
But got blinded by its rays
Where are you going?
You are losing your mind
Searching for a place
Nowhere to be found