

Alpha & Omega

Gaia Epicus

As the leaves are falling to the ground
Another page is turned around
It turns into dust and becomes something new
The end of a story, the beginning of a new

All life will end, but new life will return to this earth
Every start has an end, that's why we call it the alpha and omega

From the moment that you take your first breath
Your one step closer to your death
The sun goes down but it will rise again
The circle of life, the beginning and the end

As the snow is falling to the ground
A year is buried without any sound
It melts into water and the water brings life again
The mysterious wonders of the world works again

It's the alpha and omega
The beginning and the end
Every life has a story
Every story has to end
It's the alpha and omega
The beginning and the end