

How Christmas Is Supposed To Be

Gary Barlow

I've given all I've got
You've given me nothing
Something to believe in
Sleepless nights

But every day I wonder
You're still dreaming
If I'm wasting my time here
No surprise

The voices way too loud
Emotions up and down
Searching hard to find some light

It's a war, it's a fight
On the worst of all nights
No, it's not the red that we wanna see
There will be no release
Till we're down on our knees
Can we both agree
It's not how Christmas is supposed to be

I'm hoping this will be the year
I've been saying that forever
Agree to disagree
No compromise

Stay in
Go out
Be alone
Be together
Respecting each other even despite

The way we scream and shout
Forever falling out
Too much wrong, too little right

It's a war, it's a fight
On the worst of all nights
No, it's not the red that we wanna see
There will be no release
Till we're down on our knees
Can we both agree
It's not how Christmas is supposed to be

No, it's not how it's supposed to be
No

Maybe we can start over again
Make tonight the beginning instead of the end
Put down our weapons
Dry all our tears
Find love, love this Christmas Eve, yeah

Woo!

Merry Christmas, everyone

Just look into my eyes
Let me apologise
Here's the only place that I wanna be
I wanna be
The only gift that I need is you loving me
And we both agree
This is how Christmas is supposed to be

This love, this love
This love is right where I wanna be
The only gift that I need is you loving me
Now we both agree
This is how Christmas is supposed to be
