

Cold

Gary Numan

So here we are, that place again
Where the light just bleeds away from you
So here we are, so suddenly
Are your words so hard to find
Do the lies you told seem shameful

And you feel so cold
And you feel so cold

I've seen you cry your tears but for who
And I've seen you lost in thought, where do you go
I've seen you forget I'm still here and so
I've seen you, everything that you've tried to keep from me
Truth, it was always far away

So here are, you turn again
And the path you tread is hard to find
So here are, at war again
And your choice is clear to see
And your war has left no place for me

And you feel so cold
And you feel so cold
And you feel so cold
And you feel so cold

I've seen you cry your tears but for who
And I've seen you lost in thought, where do you go
I've seen you forget I'm still here and so
I've seen you, everything that you've tried to keep from me
Truth, it was always far away

So here we are, I'm lost again

And I feel so cold
And I feel so cold
And you feel so cold
And you feel so cold
And you feel so cold

I've seen you cry your tears but for who
And I've seen you lost in thought, where do you go
And I've seen you forget I'm still here and so
I've seen you, everything that you've tried to keep from me
Truth, it was always far away

So here we are, I'm lost again

And I feel so cold
And I feel so cold
And I feel so cold
And I feel so cold