Gary Numan

Applicant, I am Clean young flesh Cubicles, we merge And me so decent

Lock up my vehicle Crack my walls I'm stealing new words And me so honest

Someone took pictures
Just look at her go
Her presence exhausted me
Like spectators we are

I have no address 'Who are you?'
Kiss my arse goodbye
The show goes rusty.

Simulate phone call Face to face Newspaper loose talk You wreck my dreams

Exhibit 'A' dog
So few of them left
Exhibit 'B' god
The problem of death

Old sex, unclean
Do you still need the moon?
Recall no names
Don't ask me 'how are you?'

Where's my attendant And where is my wife Wait in the doorway While I say goodnight

He looks like me
