

Life's Not a Battlefield

Gary Wright

Sometimes I think if I had no name
And I could see all the world from above
I'd see through our differences we're all the same
We all need to love and be loved

The damage we do with the stones that we throw
Feeds the distance between you and I
Cos at the end of the road how far did we go
No one takes time to ask why

So before you close another door
Burn another bridge take the time and ask why
You and I are here to spread the sunshine

Cos life's not a battlefield
Life's not a battlefield
Life's not a battlefield of passions

We struggle we reach we wonder we grow
We all laugh we all cry
But if we open our hearts
We can light up the dark
Spread our wings and fly

So before you close another door
Burn another bridge take the time and ask why
You and I are here to spread the sunshine

Cos life's not a battlefield
Life's not a battlefield
Life's not a battlefield of passions
No of passions
