Relative

Gavin DeGraw

A flashlight Isn't quite sunlight But any light at all seems bright When you're looking in the dark A wet-dream Isn't the real thing It isn't really anything But at least it makes a spark And all is relative Eveything is relative Yes, it is It's all about The way we receive it How much we believe it Depending on the life you lead If you lead it Compare it to yourself Compared to someone else You care And if you took The threads in your closet The cash in your wallet The color of the skin in your blood And how you got it Compare it to yourself Compared to someone else You care Pre-made Isn't quite homemade But pre-made with a home name Is almost just the same Your girlfriend Isn't your best friend But any friend is best when You're freezing in the rain And all is relative Everything is relative You're either underweight or you're unfit Overdressed or underzipped Too social or you're just too shy Too depressed or you're too high As night to day and day to night Rich and poor and black and white All is relative Everything's relative All is relative...

[Chorus]
