Everybody Knows

Gene Simmons

You feel that you don't belong
You can't do right and you can't do wrong
Go on singing the same old song
It's okay, it's alright
Better find yourself someone tonight
Take a good hard look inside of your heart

Oh, every time you try to walk away
(Every time you turn and walk away)
Always someone you can turn to with what you say
(What you say)

Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows

You tell them you don't have the faith
Knowing much too little is much too late
But it's okay and it's alright
Can't keep buyin' the same old song
And babe, you're time is gonna come
And it won't be long

Can't you see our world is falling down
(Can't you see our world is upside down)
And don't you know what goes around comes around (Comes around)

Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows

Man, no more teachers, preachers
Gonna stop you doing that
It's time you left your conscience in your past
In your past

Everybody knows

Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows
Everybody knows
