

This never ends...
An eternity of madness
Forever i've been standing by your side
Our reality is hopeless
Searching, Not knowing what we'll find
There was no beginning
Tell me your sins so that together we can do them again
A repetition of the violence
Let's make new friends so together we can kill them again

There is no proof that we survived, that any of this happened
The shadows cast through the trees are reflections of everything
Maybe we're out of time and that's why everyone here is acting

Projected on the silver screen, They almost seem like you and me

This never ends...
Our emotions have all broken
The signal has been lost deep inside
Our desires go unspoken
In shame we search for somewhere to hide
There was no beginning
Tell me your sins so together we can do them again
A repetition of the violence
Let's make new friends so together we can kill them again