

No More Heroes

Grace Slick

They're falling down like bowling pins
They're wooden legs all splintered in
Two matches that you light and wave
But who's to see the light and save you

It seems the breed has gone away
Retirement in yesterday
But they live on in memory
Quotation marks in history

Fireside talks have faded in
Monopoly where no one wins
We just end up where we begin
No one to follow, such a sin

There's no more heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes

Genghis Khan, Alexander
Chiang Kai-Shek, Julius Caesar
Fade away
Hannibal and General Jojo
Sitting Bull, Marco Polo
No more time for heroes
No more heroes

No more time for heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes...

Hiding campaigns underground
Marching over fields and towns
Ground war just becomes a sound
Who'd try to bring the glory back
No one can say, a billion fools
Too many laws, too many rules
No one would know where to start
With ancient pride and purple hearts

There's no more heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes
No more heroes
