

Forget Your Name

Gravity Kills

I want to shake your disease
Open up and you'll see
Open up and you'll see

Well I forget your name but I love you
I forget your name but I need you, too
I forget your name, I know you're feeling the same
I forget your name but I want you, want you

Doing your best at being my slave
You can try to push me away
Walking around with nothing to show
They will never know, never know
And now you're down on your knees
You want to shake my disease
Open up and you'll see
Open up and you'll see
Well I forget your name but I love you
I forget your name but I need you, too
I forget your name, I know you're feeling the same
I forget your name but I want you, want you

And I think that it's gone to your head
And I hang on every word you've said
And you know I think it's gone to your head
Because I hang on every word you've said

Everything is what everything seems
Everything's fake and nothing is real
All of your shit is turning to dust
Breaking the back of all that you trust

Well I forget your name but I love you
I forget your name but I need you, too
I forget your name, I know you're feeling the same
I forget your name but I want you, want you
Well I forget your name but I love you
I forget your name but I need you, too
I forget your name, I know you're feeling the same
I forget your name but I want you, want you
