Live This Life

Great Big Sea

In every life, there lives a melody In every heart, there hides a knife Every soul shall seek its harmony While every fist shall find a fight And we live this life Between wrong and right And I feel so alive Tonite

Every dawn, a simple symphony In every song, a broken line In every day, a different destiny In every love, there lives a lie And we live this life...

And every star, with night falls back to life And every fire will lose its light Every tear, you ever shed will dry While every smile Will burn on So Bright

And we live this life Between wrong and right And I feel So alive Tonite

And every star, with night falls back to life And every fire will lose its light Every tear, you ever shed will dry While every smile Will burn on So Bright

And we live this life Between wrong and right And I feel So alive Tonite