Blacktop pavement cover me Like a chemical reaction or a steamroller spreading randomly

There's a distant buzz and low frequency It tickles my ear, rumbles under my feet And it shakes the leaves off of every tree Violently

What pretension, everlasting peace Everything must cease

Institution on the hill Like a beacon in the mind of an ancestor to unite a peoples' will

There's a shadowed stain on the west facade
It has spread like decay to enshroud the fraud
And the descendants find it oh so odd
Oh so odd

What pretension, everlasting peace Everything must cease

Grave memorial, hewn white stone
Like the comforting caress of a mother or a friend you've alway s known

It evokes such pain and significance What was once is reduced to rememberance And the generations pass without recompense

What pretension, everlasting peace Everything must cease
