

Brace the Storm

Grendel

When you feel empty and the days are long
And time itself seems to pass in slow motion
When all hope in this world seems gone
Sometimes we all need more than a shoulder to cry on

'Cause when the night is all ours alone
A touch of faith and devotion
Let's ease your mind and just let it all go
I see your eyes, it's all slipping away

As you lay here in my arms tonight
I'll be your shelter from the cold
I'll see you through until the morning light
I'll hold it down for you
Because...!

[Chorus]

When the sky's turning black and falls
I'll sail over the depths of your ocean
I beckon, take my hand now
As we brace the storm
And when your back's up against the wall

I'll sail over the depths of your ocean
I beckon, take my hand now
As we brace the storm

When you feel empty and it all seems wrong
And the disappointments have you feeling so broken
When all hope in this world seems gone
Sometimes we all need more than a shoulder to cry on

'Cause when the night is all ours alone
A touch of faith and devotion
Let's ease your mind and just let it all go
I see your eyes, it's all slipping away

As you lay here in my arms tonight
I'll be your shelter from the cold
I'll see you through until the morning light
I'll hold it down for you
Because...!

[Chorus]