

Standing at the door

Gretchen

Cover Me, Let me touch your face
Run my hands, over every trace
I want to know, who you really are
And why you've come this far

Cause you're standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary
Standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary man
Ooh, oh ordinary man

Take my hand, lead me to your place
Lay me down, on the bed you've made
I want to feel, your arms surrounding me
As I fall to my knees

Cause you're standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary
Standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary man
Ooh, oh ordinary man

I don't wanna wait, I just wanna taste
The manna melting on my tongue
Feel the water flow, from the fountain
Carrying the work that you've begun, that you've begun,
The work that you've begun, OH, OH

Cause you're standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary
Standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary man
Ooh, oh ordinary man

Cause you're standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary
Standing at the door of every heart
Every ordinary man
Ooh, oh ordinary man
