

Meridians

Greyson Chance

Let's go take a drive and think about our lives
Passing through meridians of greater times
I was on a different road
But now I've found my home
Within you

We can kill some time and watch movies all night
Later we'll be talking as the sky turns light
Every morning spent with you
Cause every night I love the truth

The timing never felt so right, this feeling's unknown
My love as a meridian continues to grow
Oh the lines they used to say
What type of life we lived
But now we're creating them

We're flying to another time
Our lives, they've been circled, been entwined
Kiss my lips and take me there
To heights unheard of, thoughts unreal
You're so unreal

Let's go take a drive and think about our lives
Passing through meridians of greater times
Greater times
Greater times
