being used, but never forgiven being pushed out, then pulled right back in how can I run, when you pull my strings self deception wrapped in the colors of death living a life behind curfens and fear confidence sparks the colors of death opportunity barks from a snakes gapping mouth blind eyes wide open, I walk onward to young to die

purile killer
the colors of death

time passed slowly, every second a struggle controle of destiny slips away initiations talking all chances consequences cut out, I get sucked in