

Just One Step Away

Hank Thompson

I was standing just one step away when I saw you embrace
Somebody new who loves you too and now he'll take my place
As I watched him kiss you I stood there in dismay
I could have cried when our love died, just one step away

He had no right to come between as he did deliberately
He stole away my every dream when he took you from me
And if on some tomorrow you are a castaway
If he turns you down, I'll be around, just one step away

He had no right...?
