

You Made Me

Have Mercy

I wanted to feel you in my bed again so I could rest
But there are some places that we can go
And I thought I would let you know

You know

I wanted to know if I was still in your head, and if I am
I wanted to know if I could stay, would you just push me away
And I hear you calling from a different state
To let me know you still feel the same

When the light shined in the room
I looked at you, beautiful
And now I see your face in everyone
Can you take me home tonight
I know it's wrong, it feels so right
We'll spend all our time alone
And all our time alone

You'd learn to hate me
But it's what you made me

I won't be another one
I won't be another one
A topic gossip to your friends

Again and all again

I hear you calling from a different state
To let me know you still feel the same

When the light shined in the room
I looked at you, beautiful
And now I see your face in everyone
Can you take me home tonight
I know it's wrong, it feels so right
We'll spend all our time alone
And all our time alone, alone

When the light shined in the room
I looked at you, beautiful
And now I see your face in everyone
Can you take me home tonight
I know it's wrong, it feels so right
We'll spend all our time alone
And all our time alone

Can you take me home tonight
I know it's wrong, it feels so right
We'll spend all our time alone
All our time alone