They were the only Smokers So they'd meet Outside every twenty minutes, when we all used to hang out. Soon they became drawn To each other and anticipated The next time they'd meet and we had no idea. The four of us, the two of them; My girlfriend, and my best friend. One night they announced To us They were going To go for a walk and soon they began splitting packs in half. Half for him, and half For her. Half for me is half For sure.