

Jormundgand

Helheim

In the black deeps of the ocean under the perillous sea
The ocean encompassing all the land there no man dares to sail Come breathren of Jormundgand join in the final battle Come in the name of your father Loke awaits you in the war

The waves are rising as mountains they will murder each king and each trell where they drown in the sea that is flowing over the land
The twilight of the gods has conquered the earth Evil is saging in the flood of Jormundgands gush of waves and sounds like the sough of a hundred winds

Now, no green can be seen everything lies in a sea of ashes and all that once was beautiful is now in ruins
The earth is an open wound which slowly fades
No more years of life everything is black

Slain by Thors hammer but he himself is killed Jormundgand, the lord of the deep the black flood of evil

Dead is the lord of the sea Dead is the dark flood of evil
Dead is Lokes son the serpent that surrounds Midgard Dead is the serpent that never was released before the final battle Dead is Jormundgand he who enters the embracement of darkness