Dracula's Castle

Won't you look into my world What do you see Can't you free the chains Or do you hold the key When you reach the end The corners of your mind What will you be what will you find Will you find the answers To the questions that you ask of me Will you find your answers or will you Find out that you weren't meant to be

He floats through the air free as a bird on a wing A bat out of hell Just waiting for someone to sting Look to the skies I think you'll suddenly Find out I say what I mean Silently stalking he pros by the light of the moon He climbs up your wall Just like Spiderman turned to a loon Don't look in his eyes He's got the power to make you think it's all a dream Don't watch the mirror, you can't see his reflection, girl He can't be seen Don't fall asleep tonight Or he'll find to his delight You may wake up in a castle as his bride

Don't you make no mistake You'd better lie awake With a hammer and a stake Close beside you

Watch as he crawls through your windows To feed on his prey Never again will you ever See the light of day There's no hope baby, you're his now And forever till death do you a part You better find him and bind him And bury him deep Go out and hunt him down people kill him in his sleep Don't be afraid now, cause once you Found him and bound him it's only the start Pick up the stake now hold above you And drive it deep in his heart
