Strays

Hem

In the summer of my wedding
As the corn burned in the field
Oh, I lay down for my baby
And let the sweet smoke stain my heels

Well, I lay there till the midnight When the dogs, they run through town And I rose up just to listen And I never lay back down

Then the morning, it came upon me And I set my soul to search From the tall grass down the main road To the stained glass at the church

Lord my shepard help me pray
Though I left my heart to stray
Though I left my heart untrue
I can follow, I do, I do

And I can name them in my dreaming I can set my soul to rest I can chain them to my body Let them settle at my breast

Now see them coming to my wedding Where I will teach them not to stray Oh, they'll carry my salvation Oh, they'll carry me away
