

Dream State of Mind

Hemina

Burning an inferno while smothering a flame
This hour sought promise, what can I take away?
Living surreality whilst dying from heartache
Fraudulent conclusions I've yet to validate

Falling down from a solid sky, all of this my dream state of mind
Defined myself - Dream State of Mind
You always speak the words I want to hear...

But what if you could remember Anything and everything you wanted to believe? You had to believe it - but is it really Real?
You change your thoughts, your mind, and such and such, but did you Ever really think it would change a thing?
Your brain crumbles from a marmalade sky, yet it scars like a Blood orange. A vivid hallucination that's left you with nothing more than the hope of being Dust
One hour of Dreams and delight to end up where you started
Worse than vanishing, worse than say... Being Nothing?!
Melting down from liquid sky, all of this my dream state of mind
Faced it all - Dream State of Mind
You always speak the words I want to hear...

Oh I was born to be a winner, but these lines are getting deeper
You missed your life go flashing by
In your dream state of mind

Have you ever stared into the night sky
And wished another star or planet would be your home?
Well walk a mile in my shoes!
Cos in this world there's so much pain
For just a girl of 29, without a child, living each day as if she had died!

Parched the sky for all its worth
Believe or not - own your state of mind!
You always speak the words I want to hear...
Purge the falsehood!