

You Can't Simi

Houston Calls

Push the pen to the paper
Wasting ink trying to make her move back east
To good old New Jersey
I know it's not feasible
Running out of reasons to Have these doubts in my mind
Oh, in my mind.

Go for it, don't play these games
I promise you it's right
Settle down and think this out it's way too far to try
Always, you're on my mind
And if I can't sleep without you then why would I even try to?
Always, you're on my mind
And if I can't be without you then why would I even try to?

Selfish me, I can't think straight
Foolish me, I've begun to hate myself for this
For thinking more than what it is Your radiance has filled all of my bones and skin
I can't leave you here,
Comeback with me so I can keep you smiling

The trouble is it's there in plain sight
But we walk around it, let's fight the fight
If we stick together we can tear this down
But you refuse to leave your comfortable home town

I can't believe what I would give up for you look what you've done to me
It makes me think that the distance is nothing to keep me away to keep me from holding you
