Total Conditioning

Howard Jones

Well you're not, you're not who you think you are Well we think that you are John or Dave But you're not, you're not who you think you are Jumbled mass of preconceived ideas

From our birth we were given an identity People told us we were great or small From our birth we were given rules of right or wrong Not forgetting the bullies at school

The world teaches us to think that life is full of limitations The world tries to make us think that there are loads of limits The world teaches us to think that life is full of limitations The world tries to make us think that there are loads of limits

Welcome to Conditioning Welcome to Conditioning

And as the world makes us feel great And as the world makes us feel small Oh so convinced of our identity If we only knew it we just can't believe it we just won't belie ve it

Leading us to think that we are such a success Conning us to think that we are just a failure Leading us to think that we are so intelligent Conning us to think that we are just a do-do do-do

Welcome to Conditioning Welcome to Conditioning

Who is to say what is what Welcome to Conditioning Who is to say what is what Welcome to Conditioning Who is to say what is what Er, sorry, ha ha Who is to say what is what Welcome to Conditioning Who is to say what is what Welcome to Conditioning Who is to say what is what Welcome to Conditioning