Songs Of Farewell And Departure

Hum

before we scream and descend, steady to the sun a simple tale of woe, your hearts won't be undone a love song to everyone i know arms wide open, here we go she weaves a trail of petals through the embryonic ice her hair was warm to the touch and flowers twice as nice and if he stands on the moon he can barely catch her eyes always open to the sky and so we land only to find we never left the ground please leave the walls and the floors exactly as you found a love song to everyone i know arms wide open, here we go