

No Deliverance

Hush.

There is a sadness in my heart it conquers every falling star I don't remember when I fell apart I'm walking home through crowded streets I bought some sweets and magazines there are no answers left on my machine And now nothing's really what it seems there is no deliverance for me

Don't let me lose what little hope I have left oh I tried and I tried but the truth is if I gave everything, in the end it wouldn't change, it wouldn't change a thing

I know the people from next door I hear them talking through the wall when they go to bed I'm still up watching the city through the rain cold when I touch the window pane another lonely night, another day
And now nothing's really what it seems
there is no deliverance for me

Don't let me lose
oh I tried and I tried but the truth is
if I gave everything, in the end
it wouldn't change, it wouldn't change a thing

It's so clear to me, I couldn't change a thing

Don't let me lose
oh I tried and I tried but the truth is
if I gave everything, in the end
it wouldn't change, it wouldn't change a thing
