Tacit 2

Ihsahn

Raising another tower Crumbling in the shadow Of the forming idea Too tired for pride

A thunderous voice In cold, wordless tongues Resonate deep In the heart of the night

The bittersweet song
Of a poets lament;
That even his best
Are but feeble translations