

Mirror of the Broken Past

Ilse DeLange

You took my earth, poisoned my water
Blackened my sky, as days got darker

Too many tears have fallen now
Drowned out the flame
Tainted the ground
Now I can see myself at last
In a mirror of the broken past

The bitter truth, there's no denying
I stayed too long, as love lay dying

Too many tears have fallen now
Drowned out the flame
Tainted the ground

Now I can see myself at last
In a mirror of the broken past

All the hurt that's buried under
Shattered pieces of my heart
Sad reflections of each other
Wish I could have seen right from start

Too many tears have fallen now
Drowned out the flame
Tainted the ground
Now I can see myself at last
In a mirror of the broken past