Evil in a Closet

We, were one in words You, finished my sentence I can never attract, tomorrow It pushes me aside

I sink, in waters deep Your presence kept me floating Far from depths where secrets lie Maybe in another lifetime I could be the first you meet

I once read a poem Held my breath But that moment's gone First time I felt, life somewhat hurts I need an option, a reason, and some hope

Yell at me, I want to Be your light that shines But my ground is shaking and I might fall I wish that I could say I wish I could be your Evil, Evil in a closet

Yell at me, I want to Be your light that shines But my ground is shaking and I might fall I wish that I could say I wish I could be your Evil, Evil in a closet

Yell at me, I want to Be your light that shines But my ground is shaking and I might fall I wish that I could say I wish I could be your Evil, Evil in a closet In Flames