

Fear Proclaimed

Inner Fear

As night replaces day and wonders start their absolution
Rises deconstructive and inevitable lust
Expect no joy and pleasure, one awaits the other measure
From the knowledge of my generated past

Righteous!
Out of my eyes to see one
Spirit!
Deep in my flesh to feel one
Wonders!
Something inside there, I'm for, now

When whispers trying to rebound
You hear the colours, see the sounds at once
The trembling does your soul apart
They'll never get my inner art foreseen

Lepers with halos
Lepers with halos
I must enthrone myself through burden of the years
Lepers with halos
Lepers with halos
When the sadness has to deal with other deeds

For I am nothing but inventor of my shell
For Burden of grief is so fragile to re-burn the hell
For I exist, hail the fear proclamation

Righteous!
Telling the lies to be one
Spirit!
Never allow one being gone
Wonders!
Something inside there, I'm for, now

And whispers trying to rebound
You hear the colours, see the sounds at once
The trembling does your soul apart
They'll never get my inner art foreseen

For I'll do nothing to destroy that perfect shell
For Burden of grief is so fragile to re-burn the hell
For I exist, hail the fear proclamation

It's done by now
Apparently, sleeping
Rise up like the morning without the dawn
Just breathe somehow and your heart could start beating
Shine on like the glory without the sun