Rise To The Midden

Derange the scale of trust With this animated prevarication That once passed for happiness Degenerate into character

The clearest of all intentions Words drawn out Unfiltered

A perception Untainted by logic

We are such low things With null for a name And while we quietly become Imperceptible...

We are such low things With null for a name The inner monologue exposed But this curtain is drawn closed

Intronaut