

Domino

Isak Danielson

Living in this broken city
Where love is hard to find
I've seen it all it wasn't pretty
My heart has made me blind
Is it really okay to treat me this way?
It's always the same
They give you all you ever wanted
Then take it away say, "it was a mistake"

They burn each other one by one like a domino
Falling down to the ground just like a domino
One night they hold you, the next second they let go
They burn each other one by one like a domino

Everybody wants to catch me
Nobody wants to stay
Are you really here forever?
Or will you walk away?
Is it always like this?
Every kiss is a goodbye kiss

They burn each other one by one like a domino
Falling down to the ground just like a domino
One night they hold you, the next second they let go
They burn each other one by one like a domino

Like a domino
Like a domino
One night they hold you, the next second they let go
They burn each other one by one like a domino

Every road leads to an end
Every story leaves me lonely
All the years that I've spent
Loving in vain (Loving in vain)

They burn each other one by one like a domino
Falling down to the ground just like a domino
One night they hold you, the next second they let go
They burn each other, they burn each other

They burn each other one by one like a domino
Falling down to the ground just like a domino
One night they hold you, the next second they let go
They burn each other one by one like a domino

Like a domino
Like a domino
One night they hold you, the next second they let go
They burn each other one by one like a domino
