Deep in the forest, in a spreading place The land that you know from childhood It's lost, it's lost in a haze

See your illusion, in the mirror sea It's your reflection showing It's your Odyssey

Silhouettes of creatures, movin' around The wind just keep blowing stronger With it's terrifying sound

Where shall you turn, in this darker world The way that you conquer Seems so wrong

Can't belive your eyes - for what you see Can't belive your eyes - for what it will be

Searching your way out
The truth is lying there, next to you
You're searching for hours, searching for days
Now there can't be much more ways
You're tumbling on in the forest of illusion
I see you tumbling on in the forest of illusion

Down to the valley, through these ancient trees There you'll find your own illusion That no one yet have seen

Looking for wisdom, the place you ought to be To see the revalation
That no one yet have seen