

Your Friend

Jaci Velasquez

If the wind will blow
I will hold your hand
When the sun won't shine
I will never fade away

When the tears appear
To wipe away your smile
Don't be afraid
I'll be here

I will be your friend
Who will always care
I'll be the first to catch you
If ever you should fall
And hold you in my arms
I will be your friend

If you lose your place
In life's crazy race
You can make it through
'Cause I will run with you

We'll always pray
And believe in our hearts
That God will be here
By our side

I will be your friend
Who will always care
I'll be the first to catch you
If ever you should fall
And hold you in my arms
I will be your friend

God knows our imperfections
And He loves us anyway
A closer friend than I could ever be
But a little piece of heaven
I will do my best to bring
You'll never have to search again

I will be your friend
Who will always care
I'll be the first to catch you
If ever you should fall
And hold you in my arms
I will be your friend

I will be your friend
One who will always care
I'll be a little closer
When you feel so far away
And hold you in my arms
I will be your friend
