Love Me Better

James Blunt

People say the meanest things Yeah I've been called a dick, I've been called so many things I know I've done some shit that I admit deserves it, but that That don't mean it doesn't sting Saw you standing outside a bar Would have said you're beautiful but I've used that line before Now I've had my share of shallow nights 'Cause I was scared to get it right So I was hanging with whoever

But baby then you You love, love, love me, love me better You love, love, love me, love me better There's been times I gave myself To someone else, to someone lesser than you Love, love, love me, love me better

Love me better

When I met you I was treading water And baby I know you know I got an eye that wanders But right now in this car that we're driving to your sister's All I'm lookin' for is something that's forever

Baby then you... You love, love, love me, love me better You love, love, love me, love me better There've been people that I've loved before But they were something lesser, 'cause you Love, love, love me, love me better

Love me better Love me better Love me better

People say the meanest things Yeah, but truth be told, I don't care what they think I got someone who is lying in my bed right next to me Yeah she love, love, loves me Love, love, loves me Better

Loves me better

There's been times I gave myself To someone else, to someone lesser than you Love, love, love me, love me better
