Skullduggery

James

An earwig crawled into my ear
Made a meal of the wax and hairs
Phoned friends, had an insect party
But all I could hear was the bass drum drum
All I could hear was the bass drum drum

Now if you put your ear close you'll be able to hear Not the sea shore noise of the shore sea shell The clatter of plates
And the bronze of the bell
Going ding dong, ding dong dong

Going out of my mind as they hollow my head I'm floating in the air, but my body's in bed The more they eat, the more I see What is not, but just could be You can hear them laughing in my head You can hear them laughing in my head Ha ha ha ha

Now they've eaten my memory, I can't recall How the world used to be before So a vision is the same as what is real Depends upon the lighting, and how I feel Ding dong, drum drum, ha ha ha ha

And then the music stopped The musician went away They'd eaten all my brain The red and the grey

They all stack at home
Dug a tongue through my nose
Where my brain used to be
Now there's only a hole
