

Sweet Sacred Friend

Janet Devlin

Fare thee well, sweet sacred friend
Sweet sacred friend
Fare thee well, sweet sacred friend
Sweet sacred friend

Every night I'm running home so we can finally be alone
And I'll lock the door, no world no more
Oblivion's your middle name and every time I called you came
And you held me tight, and said goodnight

You tasted like home
But no-one could know

Fare thee well, sweet sacred friend
Who I hope to never see again
It was a blessing in the end
You tore the demons from my side
You had to fall to give me life
Sweet sacred friend
Sweet sacred friend

Couldn't live without your touch but when your love became too much
Then you made me fight, to the death or life
But in this war nobody won, I lost a friend the only one
Who could fill my skin, the void within

You taste like regret
But I've laid you to rest

Fare thee well, sweet sacred friend
Who I hope to never see again
It was a blessing in the end
You tore the demons from my side
You had to fall to give me life
Sweet sacred friend
Sweet sacred friend

I can hear you calling, oh you're calling out my name
I can hear you calling me again
I can hear you calling, oh you're calling out my name
I can hear you calling me again

Fare thee well, sweet sacred friend
Who I hope to never see again
It was a blessing in the end
You tore the demons from my side
You had to fall to give me life
