

Calling Your Name

Janis Ian

Let me go on Never know your name
How can you be strong Everyone can see she's insane
All my life I've waited for someone to take the pain
All my life, I've waited for someone to take the blame
And now you're gone
Even the sun's calling your name
See, in the city, the lights they shine pretty in afterglow scented by rain Little old ladies asleep in the cradling womb, surrounded by pain
God, the pain
Let me go on
Never know your name
How can you be strong?
Even I can see you're in pain
All my life I've waited
for someone to fill my head
All my life I've waited
for someone who'll fill my bed
And now you're gone
Even the sun's calling your name
