

Tonight

Jars of Clay

Chasing the sound of lullabies that echo, that entwine
The funeral songs we're singing
Heal the pain of unheard warnings
Light will fill where dark is dawning
Show the world and bring us back to life
I know you've been a friend of sorrow
And if I never wake tomorrow
I still believe you carry me tonight
Tonight, tonight
Hallowed be the life that leads the rest of us from sleep
Out of the dream to waking
Right behind the quake and longing
I stand and watch cathedrals falling
I still believe you'll take us through the night
I know you've been a friend of sorrow
And if I never wake tomorrow
I still believe you carry me tonight
Tonight, tonight
Tonight, tonight
I know you've been
I know you've been a friend of sorrow
And if I never wake tomorrow
I still believe you carry me tonight
I know you've been a friend of sorrow
And if I never wake tomorrow
I still believe you carry me tonight
Tonight (if I never wake tomorrow)
I still believe you carry me tonight, tonight
I still believe you carry me tonight
