

Bring It All

Jason Gray

All of your insecurities
Every bent and broken piece
Even your anxiety
Might be the gifts that you need

You might be saying, "Wait a minute, Jason
Are you telling me my weakest places
Could really be where God's amazing grace lives?"
I know it's hard to believe - but

Just because you wouldn't choose it
Doesn't mean He wouldn't use it
Some things are better when they're broken
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all
All

Look at me up on the stage
You'd never know I'm so afraid
But I believe that's what it takes
To draw out the best I can give

God knows how to use your fear of rejection
The way it tunes you in and fires up your engine
It becomes a gift the moment you accept it
So look at yourself and forgive your weakness

Just because you wouldn't choose it
Doesn't mean He wouldn't use it
Some things are better when they're broken
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all
Even though you'd rather hide it
There's something beautiful inside it
So bring your heart and lay it open
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all

Oh, so come and bring it all
Oh, so come and bring it all

I believe this is the wisdom of redemption
To be reborn doesn't mean a reinvention
His perfect will comes to life in imperfection
When you give him all of you

Just because you wouldn't choose it
Doesn't mean He wouldn't use it
Some things are better when they're broken
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all
Even though you'd rather hide it
There's something beautiful inside it
So bring your heart and lay it open
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all
You'll never know until you bring it, you bring it all

Oh, so come and bring it all
Oh, so come and bring it all

Bring it all, bring it all
Bring it all, bring it all
