

Remind Me You're Here

Jason Gray

None of my pain has ever caught You by surprise
Still it's hard to trust You when I'm lost in the wondering why
But I'll trade every question just to lay down and rest in Your heart
And I'll reach for Your hand, though You led me here into the dark

And I won't ask You for reasons
'Cause a reason can't wipe away tears
No, I don't need all the answers
Just be here beside me
Father, remind me You're here
Here

If it's random or providence neither are a comfort to me
Are You cruel if You planned it or weak if You allowed it to be?
Half of me is still believin', the other half is angry and confused
Oh, but all of me is desperate and longing to be held by You

And I won't ask You for reasons
'Cause a reason can't wipe away tears
No, I don't need all the answers
Just be here beside me
Father, remind me You're here
Here

Get me outta my mind
And into Your arms
Where hope comes alive
And fear falls apart

I won't ask You for reasons
'Cause a reason can't wipe away tears
No, I don't need all the answers
Just be here beside me
Come be here beside me

And I won't ask You for reasons
'Cause a reason can't wipe away tears
No, I don't need all the answers
Just be here beside me
Father, remind me You're here
Here

(Just need to know) that You're here
(Yeah) here
I just need to know that You're here